

Optical Systems for Medical Applications to be Showcased by FISBA at BIOMEDevice

FISBA will exhibit customized optical systems and advanced optical components including FISBA FISCam™, FISBA RGBeam™, and Microlenses at BIOMEDevice 2017, New England's largest medtech event.

TUCSON, ARIZ., April 18, 2017 -- FISBA, an expert in micro optics, develops solutions tailored specifically for biomedical and imaging applications. The FISBA FISCam™, which will be featured at BIOMEDevice May 3-4, is a customizable micro camera delivering impressive 400 x 400 resolution images in a compact design measuring less than 2 mm in diameter. The FISBA FISCam™ is exceptionally tiny and lightweight, yet still produces crystal clear images for a number of innovative applications including endoscopy, online analysis, process monitoring, process control, and particle detection and counting.

Micro Camera for Medical Imaging, FISBA FISCam™

FISBA will also have their FISBA RGBeam™ and microlenses on hand at BIOMEDevice. The FISBA RGBeam™ is a customizable laser module offering precise alignment, adaptable wavelength and power, and fiber coupling with single-mode and multi-mode fibers. The FISBA RGBeam™ is often used for medical diagnostics and is also a solution for virtual and augmented reality. FISBA's microlenses for medical applications are available in diameters as small as 0.5 mm and are offered in various glass types and shapes. These microlenses are widely used for various medical systems, including endoscopy and other life science applications.

Discover more by visiting FISBA at BIOMEDevice Booth 360.

About FISBA

FISBA is a worldwide leading supplier of customized optical components and systems. For over 60 years, it has been a company priority to stay progressive without losing sight of FISBA's founding values. This mindset has enabled FISBA to become one of the most innovative suppliers in the optics industry, as well as a trusted partner to customers. FISBA operates at locations in Switzerland, Germany and the USA.

Media Contact

Birgit Rauch, Head of Marketing Communication

birgit.rauch@fisba.com

www.fisba.com